National Safety Council's Supervisor's Development Program

The Supervisors' Safety Development Program (SSDP) trains supervisors and managers to incorporate best safety practices into their daily management activities. A key feature of the program requires participants to demonstrate they have acquired the knowledge and skills from training and are prepared to implement them in the workplace.

- Training goals - To equip supervisors and managers with the knowledge, leadership skills and methods to apply safety as part of their responsibilities and become effective safety leaders and advocates.
- Who should attend? - New supervisors and managers - experienced supervisors and managers seeking refresher training or additional education
- What you'll learn - Supervisors and managers learn how to incorporate safety and health into their daily management process.
- Key learning includes:
 - How to confidently address critical safety and health issues
 - How to enhance safety responsibilities and safety management systems, including safety inspections, incident investigations, safety meetings and employee engagement
 - Identification and control of hazards, incident prevention, OSHA compliance, and continuous improvement in all areas of safety and health
 - How to promote a positive safety culture
 - Learning to support workers with on-going safety training, on-the-job training and promoting safe behavior
